WASHINGTON—President Barack Obama met with clean-energy entrepreneurs and leaders of the research community to discuss his strategy for building a clean-energy economy on Monday.

The American Renewable Energy Council, a group of green-energy companies, said Monday it was pleased with the package that was announced into law last week, which it said would provide $7 billion in clean energy investments and tools to help the U.S. achieve its goal of energy independence, and could create upwards of 3 million jobs within five years under President Obama.

"If we do not have a strategy that is the mother of inventors," stated President Barack Obama, "we need to create new jobs and new industries. Your country needs you to create a better environment for us all to live in and for all our dependent on for air, oil.

"For the first time in U.S. history, there will be a government that will make sure we do not undercut our national defense, our national security. Our country needs you. We need some inventive energy. Your country needs you. We need some inventive energy. Your country needs you.
